Marshall began to fail in health about three years ago and had been a ~~constant sufferer until the onset of~~ death called, in spite of all that medical skill and tender care could do to ease his pain. Throughout his suffering he continued to be the kind, loving and thoughtful husband and father that he had been throughout his life. In spite of his suffering, it was always so evident that his thoughts were of others, and especially of his aged parents and his family.

Funeral services were held at the Collins Church of Christ Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with A. V. Hart of Des Moines officiating.

A double quartet composed of Mrs. O. N. Serbein, Mrs. G. C. Fish, Mrs. Jesse Torry, Miss Zola Gilley, J. G. Gingles, Ike Kimberley, J. R. Witmer, Thos. Huntrod, accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Fertig at the piano, rendered most beautifully the songs, "Face to Face", "It Is Well With My Soul" and "Have Thine Own Way, Lord."

The pallbearers who carried him to his last resting place in the Collins Evergreen cemetery were B. L. Mead, Ed Jones, Sam Jones, Frank Campbell, O. H. Gearhart and Ed Stratton.
