

Judith (Good) Atcher
12/5/1937 - 7/28/2005

Judith was born December 5, 1937, in Collins, Iowa, the daughter of Ronald E. and Geraldine X (Keagle) Good and was baptized as an infant at the Methodist Church in Collins. Judith was raised and educated in the Collins and Rhodes areas. She attended kindergarten through second grade in Collins and went on to graduate from Rhodes High School in 1955. After high school she worked at Bankers Life in Des Moines and Bordons Dairy in Marshalltown where she met Charles Atcher. On December 31, 1959, she was united in marriage to Charles Atcher. Judith was a homemaker throughout her lifetime and worked at the SEMCO Community School District until her retirement. Judith enjoyed caring for and cooking for her family and supported her children in all of their endeavors. Judith also enjoyed reading and spending time near her flower gardens. She was a member of the Marshalltown Street Rods and the Marshalltown Day Lily Association.

Judith is survived by her husband Charles, her mother Geraldine, her children: Jim Atcher of Laurel, Bill (Teresa) Atcher of Gilman, Larry (Lynda) Atcher of Laurel, Sherri (Scott) Tow of Gilman, and Tom (Heather) Atcher of Marshalltown, her grandchildren: Trisha and Brittany Tow, Lisa Atcher, Andy Tow, Alex, Austin, Amy, Ashley, Autumn, and Abby Atcher; her great-grandson Jordan Bly, and her brothers Daniel (Sandra) Good of Marshalltown and Stanley (Diana) Good of Decatur, Alabama, and many loving cousins, nieces and nephews.

Judith was preceded in death by her father.
