

BURIED UNDER A CEDAR TREE

We are called upon this week to chronicle the death of one of the oldest settlers in Elk township, John Lindsay Hall, whose death occurred last Thursday morning, December 31st, 1903, at his home in Hawkeye where he and his family moved from north of Wood only a few weeks ago. He has spent the greater part of his life in Elk township where he could count his friends by the score. He was an honest, upright citizen, loyal to his country and to his flag as his war record will show, and the announcement of his death is received with sadness by all who knew him.

JOHN LINDSAY HALL

was born in Davie county, North Carolina, October 20th, 1830. When he was about three years old he moved with his parents to Jackson county, Indiana, and lived there until he was seventeen years old when he moved to Iowa and settled in Clayton county. He served as a volunteer in the Civil war in Co. D. of the 27th Iowa, from October 12th, 1864, to May 30th, 1865.

He was married to Elizabeth Rizer July 28th, 1853. To them were born thirteen children—three boys and ten girls. Five of them, one boy and four girls, preceeded him to the grave. His wife, who lived with him for more than fifty years, eight children, thirty-two grandchildren, one great-grandchild, two sisters, one brother, survive him.

The children living are John Hall Margaret Nelson, Mary Ladrick, Luella Arnold, Effie Hall, Minnie Smock, Elmer Hall, Nellie Smock.

John Hall was a thorough christian man. He was converted and joined the Methodist church when he was seventeen years of age and during the fifty-six years he held membership in that church, there was no time during that period that he could not get a church letter of good standing. He was an enthusiastic member of the G. A. R., and his comrades of Hawkeye and Edgewood acted as pall bearers at his funeral service.
