

Hand, Arthur
d. 9-6-1902

Death of Arthur Hand.

Arthur Hand of Clear Creek township was thrown out of a wagon, from which he was unloading corn, one day last week. The wagon ran over him and he died from the effects Saturday. The funeral took place Monday and the interment was at Greencastle cemetery.

Deceased was in his 75th year. He leaves his wife, five daughter and two sons to mourn his ~~death~~^{departure}. He was the oldest son of Uncle Billy Hand, who built the stone house east of Maxwell and south of the railroad. He was an old settler and like his father was a preacher in his day, and a good man, honorable and successful. His farm of a half section was one of the best in Jasper county.
