ARTHUR D. MIDDLETON
BURIED AT MAGNOLIA

We print the following from Wednesday morning's Des Moines Register. Arthur Middleton was a nephew of Mrs. B. L. Mead of Collins:

Borne to his last resting place by a group of pallbearers who had been his boyhood pals, Arthur D. Middleton, 48, one of the world's greatest baritones, was buried beside his wife at Magnolia, ten miles north of Missouri Valley, following services in the Methodist church at Missouri Valley Tuesday. He died Saturday at his home in Chicago. Middleton was born in the rooms over the county jail at Logan. His father, Wiley

Middleton, was county sheriff at that time. He leaves a son, Arthur, Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Valentine of Chicago.
