G.W. Morgan, former local grocer, died in Wyoming September 7, 1933 State Center Enterprise

S.W. Morgan, a business man of this city in its early days, died last week at the home of his daughter in Wyoming, according to word received by friends here. The body was taken to California for burial.

Mr. Morgan formerly was a grocer here, operating the store which for many years was owned by W.E. Watson Sr., and which now is owned by Watson Bros.

Mr. Morgan left State Center many years ago and celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday last winter.
