

Two Killew on Highway

A double funeral was held Tuesday at Ashton chapel, rural church southeast of Collins, for John Mullihan, 27, of Collins, and his brother-in-law, Henry Runyon, 29, of Colfax, two of the six men who met death in a headon collision late Saturday, near Wilton Junction.

Runyon was buried at the cemetery at Greencastle, where other members of his family are interred.

Mullihan, whose wife died about two years ago and was buried at Collins, leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mullihan of south of Collins, and five brothers and sisters.

During the past year Mullihan had been working in a machine factory at Moline, Ill., making frequent trips back home for the week-ends with his parents at the farm home in the old Clyde neighborhood.
